Just as dance, theatre, music, and traditional knowledge are considered Intangible Cultural Heritage, so is glassblowing. The special techniques building the foundation of our studio practice are living culture. Our aim is to protect these traditions while evolving, transforming, and innovating within this rich heritage to create exciting contemporary glass sculptures and objects that will bring the awe and wonder of glass into the future.

We collaborate with selected hot shops and produce our collections in small, traditional glass hot shops in Berlin, Sweden, and Bohemia. Each piece is finished, hand-packed, and shipped with love from our Berlin studio.

Every single vase, glassware and object of the contemporary Studio Collection is a signed collectable and one of a kind.

CIRCLES

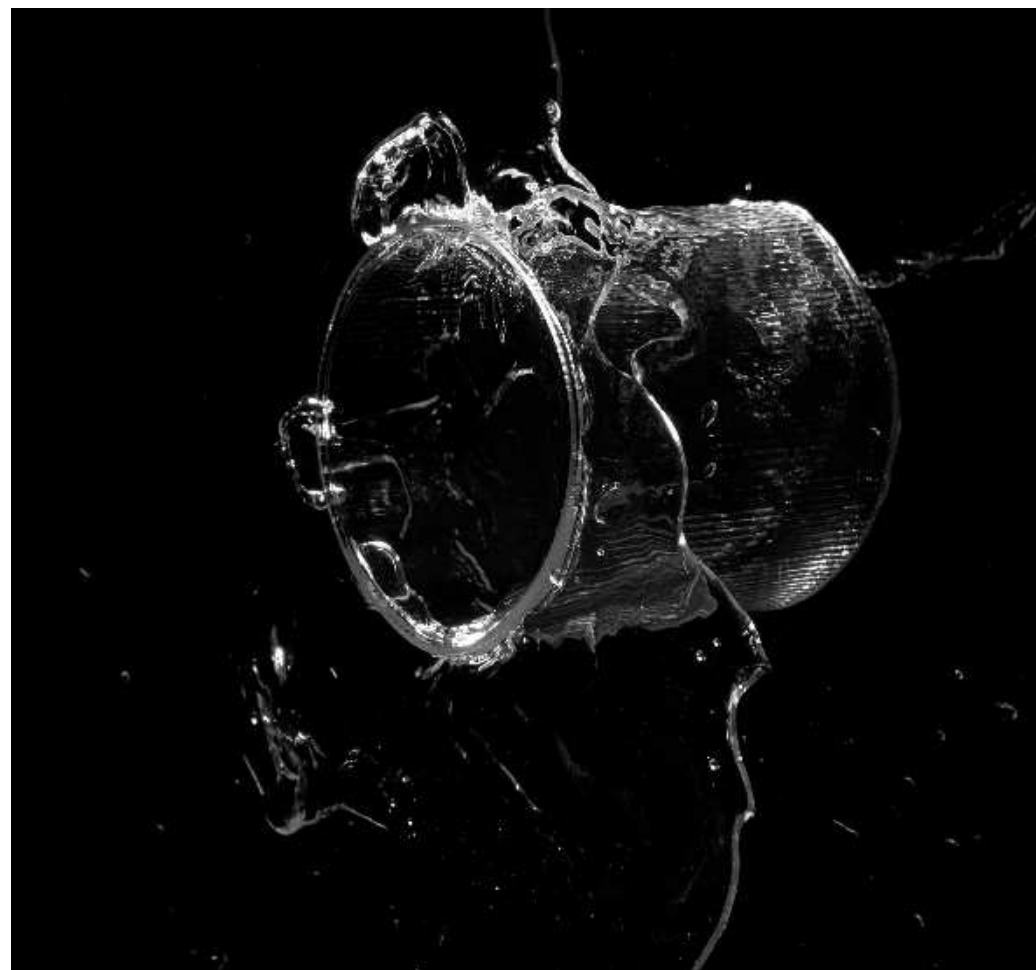

finest mouth-blown water glasses shaped with softly waved copper sheets

The Circle Glass Collection is designed for serving water. Each glass is crafted to evoke the sensation of holding pure water in your hand and experiencing its liquid preciousness.

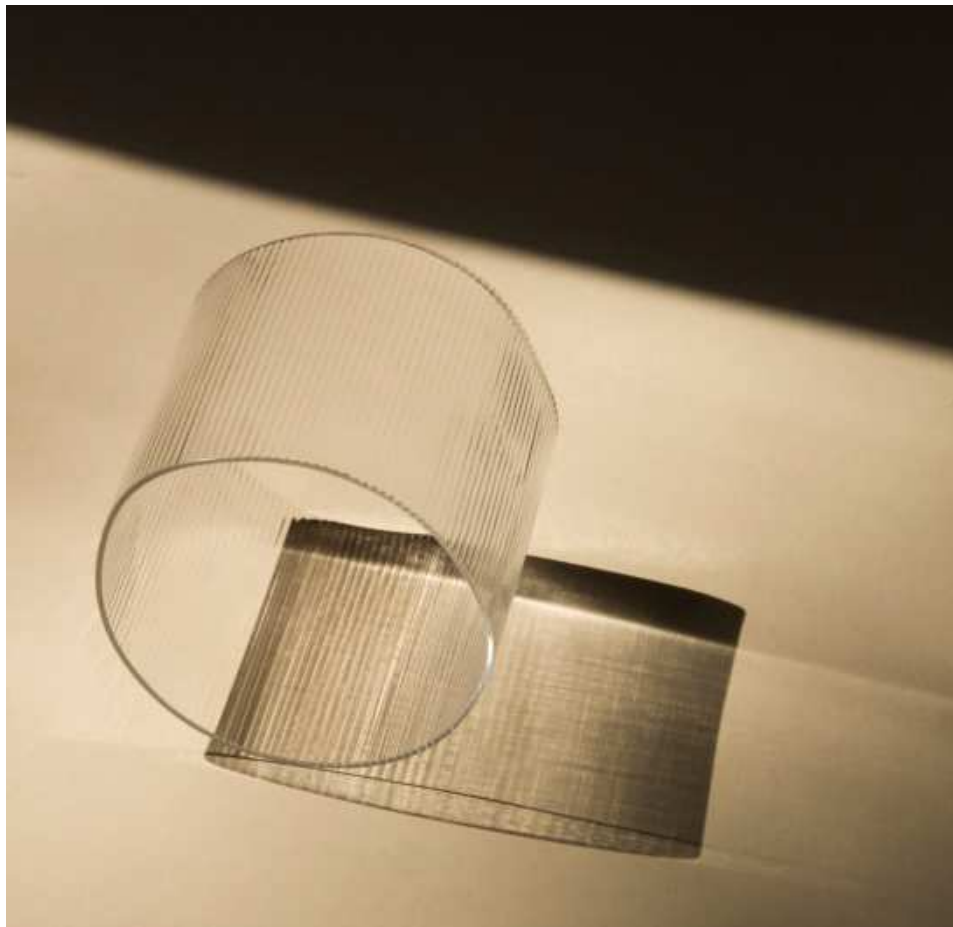

The individual off-round silhouettes of the Circle Glasses are inspired by the idea to craft the most authentic vessel for this element. Each glass reflects the fluidity, nature, power, significance, and softness of water.

Crafted by artisan glass masters, each Circle Glass, Tumbler, and Carafe is individually blown from honey fluid hot glass to crystalize into finest yet longlasting handcut and fire polished tableware.

In addition to the classic Circle water glass, we offer a set of tall Circle Tumblers and a Circle Carafe. These pieces complement each other with their off-round shapes, creating a unique, tactile, and natural table setting.

Each set is produced in cooperation with Lasvit in one of the finest traditional bohämian glass hot shops of Europe and designed by Milena Kling in Berlin.

The Circle Collection is my homage to water - fluid and strong, clear and delicate, natural and precious.

Composed of individual pieces, all hand crafted by traditional artisan glass-makers. A soft, flowing mold allows the fluid glass to take on its distinct shape of ever-changing, free-flowing circles. The delicate linear engravings of the Circle Glasses result of this unique production process, where each object is molded with fine, pleated copper sheets.

This fine dining collection is exceptionally light yet sturdy and durable, crafted with a focus on sustainability.

RAW GLASSWARE

colorful mouth-blown glass tumblers
textured with raw copper mesh

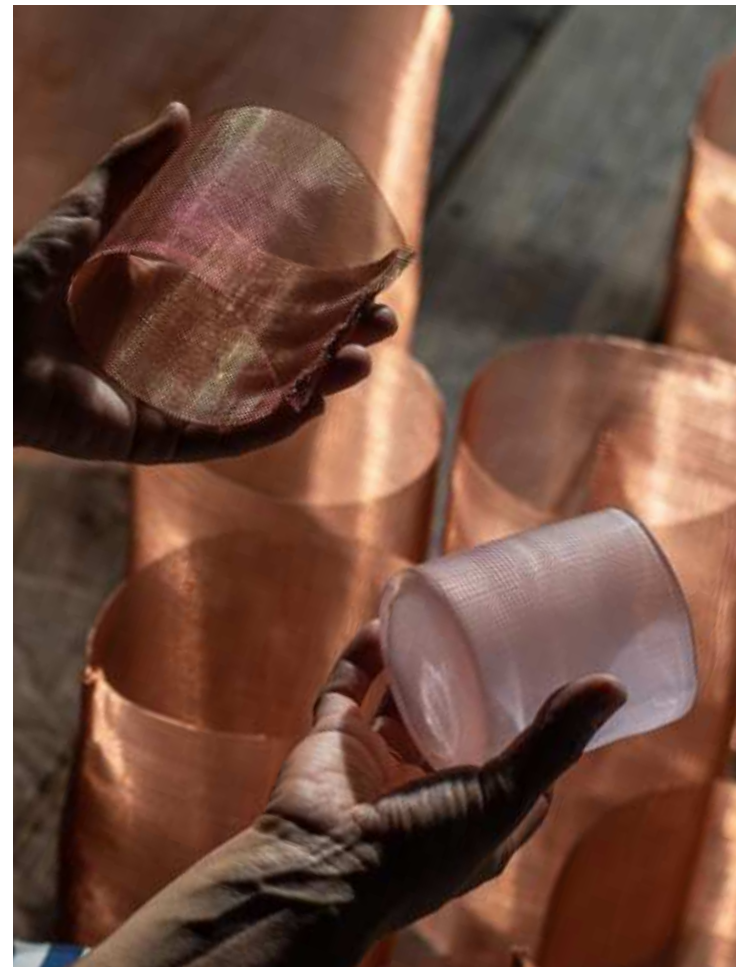

Milena's Raw Glassware collection is driven by her passion for tactile, experimental techniques and her aspirations to reinterpret traditional production methods in mouth-blown glass.

By exposing the filigree copper molds to the artisan craft of mouth blown glass and blowing fluid glass bubbles into the copper mesh molds, each object is one-of-a-kind and emphasizes the potential of traditional production. Small variations in timing, heat, and flow result in unique patterns, textures, and seams.

A wide palette of ten colors, ranging from warm amber gold and ruby red to calming blues and natural smoke gray, is eternalized in each piece of glass. The balance between the delicate and the raw elements are reminiscent of its copper mold origin.

OVERFLOW GLASSWARE

fully sustainable one-of-a-kind glass overflow champagne coupe recovered from regular glass production with a drop of fluid glass

The OVERFLOW is a unique relict of the glassblowing process and usually a forever invisible part of the mesmerizing creation of glassware.

We bring the OVERFLOW back to the table as 100% sustainable, truly one-of-a-kind glassware - too valuable and special to be lost in the process.

By adding a fluid base, formed by a drop of glass to the overflow glass volume, that is usually thrown away, we give it a new life. We rescue and offer these unique glass silhouettes, which are the remarkable by-products of standard glass production.

The OVERFLOW captures the beautiful balance between the unconsciously blown and thoughtfully rescued glass in each coupe.

The colors in the glass body result from the original glassware and can be highlighted with harmonizing or contrasting base drops. To allow a fully sustainable glass, we add colors from grinded waste glass ruby to eternalize an even more unique visual in every piece.

WANDER

exploring tactile grounds and fluid glass in this bold tactile tumbler, melted into rocks

Uniting all elements, our bold glass edition of WANDER is crafted within wild rocks, capturing the raw essence and texture of the natural landscape and combining it with the soft fluidity of uniquely blown glass. Each tumbler is shaped individually, carrying the imprint of both stone and movement.

WANDER invites you to discover a collectible, artistic glass that merges natural roughness with the fluid body of free-blown glass.

WANDER tumblers are a tribute to nature's transforming elements. Blending rawness with refinement, each glass carries an individual imprint, shaped by the rough texture of rocks, the transformative power of fire, the fluid movement of water, and the lightness of air, creating a unique sensory experience in each tumbler.

Each WANDER tumbler is a truly individual one of a kind glass.

RAW VASES

generous mouth-blown glass vases
textured with raw copper mesh

The mouth-blown glass collection Raw Vases represent a segment of Milena Kling's experimental research with glass and copper.

The studio experiments with traditional mouth-blown glass techniques and explores new strategies to transform crystal-clear glass into contemporary treasures.

Inspired by the tradition of alchemy and the intriguing transmutations of metals into treasure, Milena's work narrates a journey of exploring color and texture.

By exposing the filigree copper molds to the artisan craft of mouth blown glass and blowing fluid glass bubbles into the copper mesh molds, each object is one-of-a-kind and emphasizes the potential of traditional production. Small variations in timing, heat, and flow result in unique patterns, textures, and seams.

A palette of textures and colors, ranging from warm gold to ruby red, blue hues and natural smoke grays, is eternalized in each piece of glass. The delicate sheen and raw surface is reminiscent of its copper mold origin.

Our MINI RAW VASES are a limited edition of our classic mouth-blown Raw Vases textured and shaped with soft copper mesh.

FLOW

special edition of softly expanding fluid volumes mouth-blown glass textured with raw copper mesh

Fluid glass silhouettes are eternalised in every vase. Softness and a waved raw surface combined in each unique vessel, reminiscent of its copper mesh origin. Within the hand crafted soft woven moulds each volume is free to develop individual shapes in combination of soft mould, breath, heat and weight of the glass.

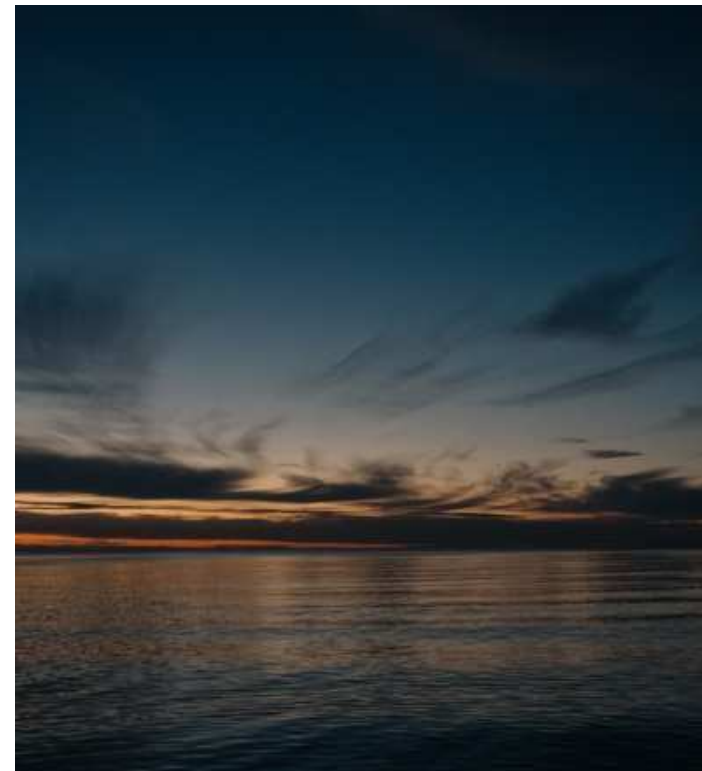

SEAGLASS

unique mouth-blown glass bowls, muted and smoothed by sand

Our glass objects are all individually handcrafted, signed collectibles.
Every Seaglass serves as reminder of the infinite tactility of time.

The Seaglass Objects are available in three sizes and natural colors, inspired by the sand brushed ocean tumbled seaglass we find on the beaches.

Softened by fine sand, the process allows a gentle, matte and smooth finish. The objects can be placed as unique individuals or placed together as a united interplay of color and shape.

All our Seaglass objects are individually handcrafted and one of a kind. We craft the Seaglass collection including recycled glass in each object, following a gentle sustainable process inspired by nature. What was once broken glass is slowly transformed into treasures, shaped by hand and guided by our process of renewal.
